

FU JEN STUDIES: LITERATURE & LINGUISTICS

Editor

Chung-Heng Shen

Editorial Assistant

Hsin-yi Shih

Bo-Hao Chang

Editorial Board

Chen-Nan Lai, Dean of College of Foreign Languages

John Basourakos, English

An-Nie Hsu, German

Jean-Yves Heurtebise, French

Miguel Angel González Chandía, Spanish

Bow-Ju Ferng, Japanese

Manuel Delmestro, Italian

Emmie, Zi-Xuan Li, Graduate Institute of Cross-Cultural Studies

International Advisory Board

Pang-yuen Chi, emerita, National Taiwan University

Margarette Connor, City University of New York/ Hostos Community College

Terry Eagleton, Lancaster University

Hua Meng, Peking University

David R. Mayer, S.V.D., Nanzan University

Cecile Chu-chin Sun, University of Pittsburgh

David Der-wei Wang, Harvard University

Afaa Weaver, Simmons College

FU JEN STUDIES

LITERATURE & LINGUISTICS

NO. 50 (Jul. 2017)

CONTENTS

	Page
TEXTBEWEGUNG – REKONSTRUKTION VON WAHRGENOMMENEN LERNPROZESSEN VON DAF-LERNERN IM RAHMEN EINES THEATERPROJEKTS Ingo Tamm Pai-Ling Sah	1
PROPUESTA DIDÁCTICA PARA TRABAJAR LAS COLOCACIONES EN EL AULA DE ESPAÑOL COMO LENGUA EXTRANJERA Lo-Hsueh Lu	35
MARCELA PAZ Y ALICIA MOREL: PERICO TREPA POR CHILE Miguel Ángel González Chandía	59
CINA IMMAGINARIA - ORIENTALISMO DI CARLO GOLDONI Yi-Ting Chen	81
MEMORIA, DEAMBULACIÓN URBANA Y PESQUISAS EN LA NOVELA NEGRA DE FRANCISCO GONZÁLEZ LEDESMA

NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS

Tamm Ingo is an assistant professor in the German Department at Wenzao Ursuline University of Languages. He studied history and political science at the University of Hannover, Germany and he holds a PhD degree in history. His research interests include teaching of German culture, foreign language learners' motivation and drama education in German language teaching.

Pai-Ling Sah is an assistant professor in the German Department at Wenzao Ursuline University of Language. She studied mass communication, sociology and political science at the University of Münster, Germany and she holds a PhD in political science. Her research focuses on drama education in German language teaching.

Lo-Hsueh Lu is an associate professor in the Spanish Department at Providence University. She holds a PhD degree from Syracuse University of USA. Her fields of expertise are Spanish Language and literature, Second Language Reading and Teaching.

Miguel Ángel González Chandía is a professor, and currently the chair, in the Spanish Department at Fu Jen University. He holds a PhD degree from the University Leuven (KU Leuven), Belgium. His fields of expertise are Systematic Theology, Latin American studies, and the culture and history of the Taiping Revolution in nineteenth-century China.

Yi-Ting Chen is an assistant professor in the Italian Department at Fu Jen University. He holds a PhD degree from the Institute of Cross-Cultural research focuses on Spanish crime novels, contemporary Spanish women's fiction and popular culture, and she has published extensively on these fields in national and international journals as well as in the collected volumes.

Wen-Chun Lan is an associate professor of Spanish in the Department of European Languages and Cultures at National Chengchi University. Her fields of expertise are Spanish teaching; Spanish grammar studies; Chinese-Spanish comparative studies.

Eric de Payen is an associate professor in the French Department at Fu Jen University. He received his Ph.D. in European History from the University of Montpellier. His research and teaching focus on French civilization and thought.