

Teaching and Learning in EMI:
Policies and Practices from Wenzao Ursuline University of Languages, Taiwan
Wednesday, July 5th, 2023

Purpose:

Great attention has been paid to English Medium Instruction (EMI) in higher education since the Taiwan Government announced its bilingual policy by 2030. Numerous universities and colleges have made attempts to promote internationalization through EMI practices. How can a language university develop its strategic plan to promote EMI at the meso (policy) and micro (classroom) levels? How have EMI implementations been made in various disciplines, particularly in the social sciences and humanities? How can EMI meet the needs of various stakeholders, specifically teachers and students?

As two colleges are awarded the key colleges by the Ministry of Education of Taiwan to promote bilingual education, the University is pleased to share our implementation of policies and practices. With our success and challenges to promote EMI, we encourage other universities to reflect on their EMI strategies. Thus, the Conference on English Medium Instruction (EMI) will be hosting a virtual seminar entitled "Teaching and Learning in EMI: Policies and Practices from Wenzao Ursuline University of Languages, Taiwan" on July 5th, 2023. This one-day conference will divide the presentations into the meso and micro levels. The morning section highlights the administrative implementations. This will be followed by the afternoon session with instructors who will share their classroom practices focused on three themes: (1) disciplinary literacy, (2) teaching strategies, and (3) learning strategies in EMI. We sincerely welcome you to join us!
